Winter Carnival

Winter Carnival week at MLC is full of activities that generate class camaraderie and interaction among all the students. Representing their classes, students competed in speedball and broomball tournaments, a snow sculpture contest, an Iron Chef competition, and three-point shooting contests.

“Winter Carnival is a great way to break up the monotony of February and enjoy the snow,” says Sarah Sherod (CLHS). “I love seeing the creative snow sculptures every year.” She definitely wasn’t disappointed this year. Following the theme “Game Knight,” Staci Putz (WLA), Rachel Nowicki (St. Croix), Ruth Luehring (Lakeside), Becca Hussman (FVL), Emily Hughes (Lakeside), and Megan Bauer (Shoreland), pictured, fashioned magnificent sculptures.

“Speedball was great!” adds Samantha Barber (HVL). “We had such a good time playing against the other classes in a competitive, fun atmosphere. Of course, winning as seniors wasn’t bad either.” The seniors also won the broomball tournament, led by five-time broomball champion Lindsay Hahn (MVL).

Just in case there hadn’t been enough good-natured competition, the MLC hockey club faced alumni now at Wisconsin Lutheran Seminary. “The annual hockey game versus the sem is what I look forward to the most about Winter Carnival,” says Caleb Rothfuss (MLS). “It’s especially fun to play against the guys who graduated last year, and the game is intense. The blood and tears are definitely worth it when you hear the crowd going crazy cheering for you.” Hundreds of students came to support their classmates, and after a few friendly fights and a number of goals, our future pastors from the seminary skated to a 6-5 victory. Pictured: Dave Spaude (Antigo HS-WI)

Witness for the Prosecution

Crowds uncovered the true murderer as they watched the thrilling production Witness for the Prosecution. The cast worked hard the past five weeks, preparing to prosecute, defend, and testify. Lucas Proeber (MLS), who had the challenging privilege of being the director, says, “Directing this show was really a lot of fun. I thought it would have been more stressful, but it was just fun the whole way through!” A talented and dedicated cast made his job easier. “Overcoming obstacles, learning lines, and laughing loudly brought us together as a cast in this crazy murder mystery of a production,” says Joy Reeder (LPS). “We were excited to present the show this past weekend and are so grateful to everyone who attended!”

Peter Plagenz (WLA) and Zak Stowe (WLA) listen to Rachel Brokmeier (LPS) testify in court.
