Harvest Hoedown

A little too old for trick-or-treating? You can still dress up and have a good time! Anchor hosted their annual autumn costume party at a local farm, donating the proceeds to Christian Life Resources. Students were warmed by a bonfire, pretended to be Katniss with a bow and arrow, carved pumpkins, and so much more! “I remember trick-or-treating when I was little, but this hoedown was much sweeter than all the candy I ever got combined!” describes Jay Selle (FVL). Of course no costume party is complete without a costume contest. Ruth Wendland (LPS), Ryan Klatt (West), and Kristy Lendt (MVL), pictured, along with the other competitors showed off their creative costumes as they pranced down the catwalk. Wolf Parsons (Douglas HS- Spearfish SD) walked away with first prize by dressing like a sheep. Get it? A Wolf in sheep’s clothing!

Student Senate

With Election Day only a week away, presidential politics are on everybody’s mind. You might even catch yourself thinking, “What if I were president?” Micah Koelpin (LPS) sure has. He jokingly explains, “The stairway to the presidency has a lot of steps, but by being involved in Student Senate, I’ve already taken the first one.” Phil Janisch (West), pictured, took a couple more of those big steps when he became MLC Student Body President. Student Senate helps out with oodles of on-campus happenings, from planning the Homecoming and Winter Carnival weeks to supporting intramurals and clubs like Anchor. “It’s great to see future called workers already sitting down, working together, and making decisions to benefit their fellow students and the school,” says David Marquardt (LPS), “and it can be really fun too!”

Make It Rain

Everyone involved in this year’s musical has been working relentlessly for months now—just for you! And now, the storm is finally here! Singin’ in the Rain rolls onto the MLC stage this weekend. “It’s been a privilege to see the cast develop characters and make this show their own over the past two months,” says director

Joshua Jensen (LPS). “Having real rain puts the icing on the cake.” He wasn’t kidding. It really is going to rain on stage this weekend. How? Come see for yourself! You’ll also get the stupendous treat of seeing Jared Natsis (MLS), Paul Koester (LPS), and Lucas Proeber (MLS), pictured, perform the hilarious scene including the song “Moses Supposes.” See you there!
