Jacob Klug masterminds MLC's Rocket League team.

Introducing eSports

Do you love the competitive and social aspects of a team but prefer video games to basketball? Welcome to the world of eSports! MLC's student-founded club started two years ago with a Rocket League team. This year they expanded into Smash Bros Ultimate and are looking to add CSGO next semester.

Jacob Klug (Lakeside / St. John-Juneau WI) explains, "We compete through the Collegiate Star League. Each team sets its own practice schedule." Knights face opponents from schools like University of Wisconsin Madison and North Carolina in online matches. Watch them play at twitch.tv/mlcesportsteam.

Ready to get involved? Jacob says, "We are looking for more members, both casual and competitive players. We hope to start competitive teams for other games. We just need people to take charge and head them up!"

Keeping in Touch

Texting, Snapchat, and snail mail—all are ways MLC students keep in touch with far-off family and friends. A few times a year, however, students get creative and scribble salutations on whiteboards. Members of the photography team snap a shot, and the pictures are displayed on Facebook and our gallery.

What do college kids tell their loved ones? Here are a few favorites:

Libby Kassuelke (MVL / Peace-North Mankato MN): "Please remember to feed my cat."

Gabe Jacobsen (Home School / Shepherd of the Lakes-Fairmont MN): "Dear Mom, Stop selling my Legos."

Noah Ungemach (Manitowoc LHS / First German-Manitowoc WI) "Look, Mom and Dad! I AM ALIVE!"

Searching for Wellness

New Ulm might seem small—until you're faced with a scavenger hunt. Brett Burger (Lakeside / St. John-Waterloo WI), a Wellness Committee student rep, says, "We did the hunt to promote wellness by having teams find spots around New Ulm in which to be physically active." Participants (pictured) visited Vogel Fieldhouse, parks, and the bike trail. They learned lots and got some exercise too. "They had two hours and could only use their legs to get from place to place," says Anna Treder (CLHS / Christ the Vine-Temecula CA).

Next up for the Wellness Committee are educational seminars and more chances to get active. Mike Radue (WISCO / Mt. Calvary-Waukesha WI) says, "Our plans involve activities like handball, flag football, and a softball tournament."
