Students off the Clock

With so many events at MLC, do students ever find a chance to chill? Now that first-month jitters are gone, the daily rigor has set in and students are eager to become familiar with their new routines of relaxation. When we aren't studying or participating in clubs and sports, we don't let our free time slip away.

Sam Muske (MVL / St. Matthew-Freeland MI) says, "There's nothing quite like eating fresh food when you're hungry after studying. Late Nite provides that and more. It's the perfect social setting for a friendly hangout." Late Nite remains the most popular pastime for students. It's especially crowded around 10, when most students get hungry again before bed. Jack Minch and his crew, to whom the students owe many thanks, organize it all. Make sure to stop by on a Focus on Ministry trip if you can!

Intramurals are another way to spend time outside of classes. From sand volleyball to badminton, MLC has several different choices for students. Any intramural can be added to the schedule if students show enough interest to the Student Senate, and all students are free to propose a league or tournament. Intramurals provide an opportunity for students who are not in a sport to still participate and reap the benefits of competition. "They're a great way to unwind and get involved," says Caleb Lash (Shoreland LHS / First-Racine WI). You may even see one of your professors on the other side of the court.

Every student thinking about college knows that dreaded D-word: Debt. Money is a prevalent concern for students, which is why Adjunct Instructor Krohn brings excitement to the classroom every day for Organizational and Personal Finance (OPF for short).

She infuses students with a passion for stewardship through videos, discussions, and projects. She designed all of the assignments to serve a practical purpose with future called workers in mind. "My biggest goal for the course," she says, "is that students understand that all that we have is a gift from the Lord—even our finances. It is our joy to become good stewards of our finances as well as our God-given abilities.

"Don't be afraid to make mistakes," she adds. "I had a very unique path coming to MLC. I tried many careers before the Lord directed my path here. I used the opportunities throughout my life to witness to others around me, but now I have the unbelievable opportunity to help encourage the next generation of pastors, teachers, and staff ministers. So, my advice is . . . Grow where the Lord plants you. Your journey will take some crazy curves and big bumps, but every step of the way, Jesus is walking with you and giving you the opportunity to share his love with someone around you!"
